

Fall '08 Workshop Series

Tap Dancing for Theater

Everyone loves a musical with lots of tap dancing, but many actors and actresses can't audition because they have no tap experience. This beginning tap class is designed to teach the basic steps and many common intermediate steps, arming the students with a sufficient tap foundation to perform in musical theater. Although the class is designed for theater actors, anyone with a desire to learn to tap can enroll. And now is the time! - because Kelsey Theatre is offering TWO special Fall '08 workshops just for you!

NEW for fall, Intermediate Class which picks up where the beginners' class ended!

Beginners' class on Tuesdays and Intermediate class on Wednesdays. Tap shoes are required (information on tap shoes will be sent to you before the first class).

Fall '08 Workshop Series

Tap Dancing for Theater

Instructor: Jane Coult

Jane has studied dance for 30 years, starting when she was 2 ½ . Returning to dance school as an adult, she started teaching pointe and tap dance to both children and adults at area dance schools. In 1999, she returned to the theater after an absence of over 15 years. Appearing in 42nd Street, Anything Goes and The Sound of Music renewed her love of dancing for theater. She then moved on to choreographing productions for the OAT and Kelsey Theatre and has choreographed numerous shows over the ensuing years at both theaters and in Northeast Philadelphia. Most recently Jane was nominated for a Perry Award for her choreography in the critically acclaimed production of Singing in the Rain. Jane teaches the tap class for both sessions of Tomato Patch.
